OFFICIAL PAPER OF LINCOLN COUNTY.

WHITE OAKS, N. M. JULY, 1910, 1895.

THE WHITE OAKS EAGLE is the only newspaper in Lincoln county that sports a lawyer editor, and it appears to be walking away with all the "plums" in the way of printing. It is dollars to doughnuts that the Hon. John Y. Hewitt works harder for every dollar he gets from his newspaper than he does for every ten he adds to his bank account practicing law or mining. A lawyer never sees the dark side of a hard life until he gets tangled up with a newspaper. —Socorro Advertiser.

We want to say to our friend McCutchen that we are sorry he published the above, because it compels us to acknowledge that this is the softest job we ever struck. The editor of the EAGLE has often seen in the newspapers intimations that the business was lucrative and a maker of bloated bondholders, etc., but somehow we acquired the habit of thinking that these things were usually published in a spirit of irony. Now that we are on the inside—ground-floored, as it were—we are aware that such remarks are only too true, and it grieves us to feel that we are soon to be numbered with that much-abused class who are willing and anxious to pay an income tax if the supreme court would only permit such an unconstitutional proceeding. The writer has worked hard at mining and the law practice to gain a competence, only to find in his declining years that it would have been as easy as falling off a log if he had gone into the newspaper business earlier in life.

PROHIBITION.

A Topeka, Kas., correspondent of the St. Louis Republic says:

There has never been a day since the prohibitory liquor law went into effect in Kansas that there were not open drinking places in the towns and cities, and a total disregard of the law by the thousands of drug stores that flourish because they can sell whisky to the class who do not frequent the joints and saloons. The farce was thrust upon the state by St. John, who rode the hobby until the people rebelled and elected Gov. Glick, the only governor Kansas ever had who did not wear the prohibition cloak of hypocrisy. Then came John A. Martin, who made an effort to close the open saloon, but whose efforts signally failed. Following Martin, Humphrey made a feat at the enforcement of the law, but there was never a day during his administration when there were not scores of open saloons running in Kansas. Llewellyn's reign for two years was even worse, for his appointees stood in with the violators of the law in the large cities, and it was freely charged that the police and police boards received a bribe off from the sale of liquor. Under Gov. Morrill the prohibition fal-lacy has reached low water mark. As was shown by the reports of delegates to the recent prohibition convention, there is hardly a village in the state that is without its joints and open saloons. In all the larger cities the violations are notorious, and regular monthly fines are imposed on the keepers of saloons, the amount of the fine depending upon the business transacted. In cities under metropolitan police rule commissioners were appointed who were favorable to the license system, and in several instances preachers have joined in the recommendation for such boards. In Leavenworth and Atchison good business men were named as police commissioners who would allow the saloons to run, and a detail of police would see to it that the monthly fines were promptly collected. If a saloon keeper refused to pay the $25 or $50 assessed by the commission, he would be forced to the wall. This has been the policy in all the cities of the first class.

The round, sleek forms of the cattle ranging in Colfax county, says the Springer Stockman, show evidences of plenty of good feed.

It is stated that work will begin on the Highland canal inside of four weeks. This canal will water some 90,000 acres of land west and northwest of Pecos.

On Sunday, 7th inst., twenty-seven of Eddy's citizens were baptized in the Pecos river by Rev. Read of the Baptist church and Rev. Govett of the M. E. church, south.

At Seven Rivers, on the 4th, a heavy rain made glad the hearts of the settlers. It extended from Pecos to the Pecos, taking in the Seven Rivers district, and did much good.

Among the neatest, typographically, of our territorial exchanges is the Las Vegas Examiner. It is less than a year old, well gotten up, and large enough for the field it occupies.

Dr. Wm. Strachan died in Santa Fe on the 9th inst. He was a pioneer of this territory, coming here over forty years ago. He had been several times a member of the legislature and was sergeant-at-arms of the last assembly. He was 68 years of age.

A party of eight settlers, says the New Mexican, with horses, cows and farming outfits, passed through Santa Fe en route to the Jemez valley, where they will locate. They hail from Oklahoma, and said that hundreds of people there would come to New Mexico this fall.

The official score of the ball game at Roswell on the Fourth, between the "Fats" and the "Leans," was: "Fats"—4 runs, 120 errors. "Leans"—14 runs, 144 errors. Very fair game—considering the occasion and the average Roswellite's penchant for red lemonade, of which there was, no doubt, a bountiful supply.

Referring, doubtless, to the third daughter, recently arrived, of the Cleveland, the New Mexican says: "No doubt the proud parents were just the least bit disappointed that it wasn't a boy, but at least they have the comfort of knowing that the youngster will never take part in a 'Yer-ity' boat race." Quoten rate! The young lady is an embryo "new woman," you know.

At the meeting of the New Mexico Medical Society, at Las Vegas, on the 10th inst., the following resolution was adopted: "We endorse the action of the New Mexico territorial board of health in any and all of their transactions up to date, and that we have full confidence in the board's doing justice to all applicants for license to practice medicine in New Mexico."

It is probable Albuquerque may lose her free mail delivery, owing to the decrease in box rents caused by the carrier system. Uncle Sam likes sometimes to make both ends meet as well as other folks; but our mail system has never been self-sustaining, while there are never ceasing appeals alike for increased facilities and cheaper postage. We oppose the present postmaster general will maintain the service satisfactorily without so great a deficit as is usual.

There is a great deal of truth in the remark by the Las Vegas Optic about the difficulty of convincing eastern pleasure seekers that New Mexico hasn't, in this part of the territory, a summer climate. They look at the map and see that we are about on a line with Memphis, Tenn., and they break out in a profuse perspiration at the very idea of coming here. They do not know that we have the finest summer climate to be found in the United States. —Albuquerque Democrat.

J. W. Thompson, a printer, simply strolled into Eddy. After holding communion with fellow craftsmen for a day, he left for Roswell. A Mexican mail carrier, 18 years old and ignorant, has been held for trial for d-stroying mails. He has made a confession, which goes to show that he destroyed the mails to evade traveling over a lonely road where he feared Indians, and then reporting that he had been robbed, being ignorant of the enormity and penalty attaching to such crime. He may be sentenced to ten years in prison and $5,000 fine. Is it right to employ uneducated boys for such responsible service?

The storms of last week were more or less damaging to public works throughout the territory. An employee of the Western Homestead irrigation company tells the following about the effect of the storm in the Rio Puerco country, which is the biggest flood year up to date: "The water came down the deep channels with a terrific rush, bearing with it masses of hailstones, which had been frozen together on account of the low temperature, as large as hogheads. The great chunks of ice carried everything before them, and as they crashed and ground together the noise was deafening."

OFFICIAL CALL FOR THE FOURTH NATIONAL IRRIGATION CONGRESS.

To be Held in Albuquerque September 16-19, 1895.

By the authority of the National Executive Committee, the Fourth National Irrigation Congress is hereby called to meet in the city of Albuquerque, N. M., Mexico, for the four days beginning September 16th, 1895.

The present year is proving to be the most remarkable in the history of American irrigation. It has seen a wonderful awakening of popular interest in the cause throughout the East, resulting in the organization of most potential forces for the purpose of co-operating with the western people; the enactment of well considered laws in eight States, and the creation of administrative systems in five of them; the recognition of the pressing nature of the problem by the Departments of Interior and Agriculture, under whose direction a National Board of Irrigation has been formed from officials in various departments of the government.

These splendid evidences of the triumphant progress of the irrigation cause demand a large, representative and effective session of the Irrigation Congress in 1895. A further reason for such a gathering is the fact that the presidential campaign of 1896 will be inaugurated previous to the assembling of another session of this body, and that it is thus necessary to formulate, at Albuquerque, the demands which the friends of irrigation will desire to make upon the great political parties of the nation.

In view of the nature of the opportunity, a program of extraordinary variety, interest and importance will be arranged, and it is anticipated that this session of the congress will be more widely useful and influential than the previous conventions at Salt Lake in 1891, at Los Angeles in 1893, and at Denver in 1894. The friends of irrigation throughout the United States—for today the movement is national in its scope and interest—should unite in an effort to obtain a worthy result at Albuquerque.

BASIS OF REPRESENTATION.

In accordance with a resolution of the Third National Irrigation Congress at Denver, Colorado, September 8th, 1894, the Fourth National Irrigation Congress will be composed as follows:—

1. All members of the National Executive Committee.
2. All members of the States and Territorial Commissions.
3. Five delegates at large, to be appointed by their respective Governors, for each of the following states and territories:—Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

4. Three delegates at large for each state and territory not heretofore enumerated, to be appointed by the Governors of said states or territories, or, in case of the District of Columbia, by the President.

5. One delegate each from regularly organized Irrigation, Agricultural and Horticultural Societies, and Societies of Engineers, Irrigation Companies, Agricultural Colleges, and Commercial bodies.
6. Duly accredited representatives of any foreign nation or colony, each member of the United States Senate and House of Representatives, and each Governor of a state or territory will be admitted as honorary members.

The use of proxies and the manner of casting the vote of delegations will be regulated in accordance with a resolution adopted at Denver and printed on page 89 of the official report of that meeting.

By order of
THE NATIONAL EXEC. COM.,
